The Department Of Peten, EN.

Peten, Tikal, Petén Department, GT

Location: Most northwest department in Guatemala, bordering Belize and Mexico

Landscape: Huge expanse of tropical rainforest, swamps and savannah forms part of an untamed wilderness that stretches into the Lacandón forest and collects Maya cities from late pre-classic and classic period (400 B.C. to 900 A.D.).

Fun Facts: The Department of Petén occupies approximately 1/3 of Guatemala's area. It's population represents only about 4% of Guatemala's total population.

What you will see: The UNESCO World Heritage Site, Tikal National Park, is located within the Petén Department. This 360 square mile protected national park is located on the edge of the "Reserva de la Biósfera Maya", where a large assortment of animal species can be found. The park's main attribute is the ruins of an ancient Mayan city, Tikal (Tik'al). The city was likely called Yax Mutal by its inhabitants and is one of the largest urban centers and archeological sites of the Maya Civilization, dating back to the 4th Century BC. Other places of interest within the Petén Department are Yaxha and Topoxte. Although these sites are not as popular as "Tikal" or "El Mirador", they were still very powerful in their time and very beautiful. Yaxhá is located over a hill surrounded by the Sacnab and Yaxhá lagoons. It is inside a zone of two square kilometers, where more than 1700 structures have been identified (Hermes, et al., 1999). The site was inhabited by the Maya civilization since the Pre-classic period (1500 B.C. – 250 A.C.) through the Classic period (250-950 A.C.).

Wildlife: Commonly found within the Petén Department are agouti, coatis, gray fox, spider monkeys, howler monkeys, harpy eagles, falcons, ocellated turkeys, guans, toucans, green parrots and leaf-cutting ants. Casa del Jade, EN.

La Antigua Guatemala, GT

The word jade refers to two different minerals: jadeite and nephrite, both of group VIII (inosilicates), according to the classification of Strunz. To be considered as jade, both must be present as aggregates in the form of very fine granules or interlaced fibers.

The Jade Nefrita, very common in Asia, is often called Chinese Jade, because with this beautiful carved pieces are made with various motifs such as Buddhas, dragons and snakes, as well as some oriental symbols. Similarly, large deposits of Jade Nefrita are found in places such as: British Columbia, Canada; Alaska and Wyoming, The United States; Australia and New Zealand, where it is known as "The Green Stone".

The other type of Jade identified by the Gemologists is the Jade Jadeite, which is a scarce and difficult type of Jade. It can basically be found in four places in the world: Myanmar or the Ancient Burma, Japan, Russia and Guatemala.

The difference between these two types of jade lies in the chemical composition and hardness. Using the Mohs scale, where the diamond is the hardest with a scale of 10, the hardness of Jade Nephrite ranges between 6.0 and 6.5, while the hardness of Jadeite Jade reaches between 7.0 and 7.5 degrees on the same scale.

Jade has been used to make a variety of products, and has acquired the reputation of being a good luck charm. For more than 5,000 years in China and Mesoamerica, jade has been used as material to manufacture utensils and ornaments; It has also been used to make weapons and tools due to its hardness and resistance.
